How to calculate the cost of tuition per course or per credit hour:

- To calculate the cost of tuition per course or per credit hour, divide the total cost of Tuition (in the Statement Details section) by the total number of courses or credit hours (in the Enrollment Information section).
- Note that the cost per course or per credit hour may vary for each student based upon whether they qualify for the undergraduate flat tuition rate for students enrolled in 12-17 credits, which program the student is enrolled in, and whether the student dropped any courses after the deadline to receive a 100% credit.
- For more information about the cost of tuition and fees, please visit: hpu.edu/tuition.

This section displays student enrollment information. Course name and number will be displayed along with the section. It will also include the billable credit hours associated with each course. Course Status indicates if the student is actively enrolled, dropped, or withdrawn. The percentage of tuition charged is calculated based on drop deadlines listed on the Academic Calendar. Courses dropped after the dates listed on the academic calendar will be charged to the student as outlined within the Academic Calendar.
