Purpose

The purpose of this document is to provide a blueprint of the student's educational experience with assigned tasks to develop skills and demonstrate competency in each of the Social Work Practicum competencies set forth by CSWE and the HPU Social Work Department. It should be a dynamic learning tool that allows for flexibility based on the experiences and abilities the student brings to the placement and the opportunities offered in a particular agency setting.

Instructions for Developing Learning Agreement

When meeting with the field instructor to develop the agreement, students should come prepared to discuss the strengths they bring to the field, the areas in which they would like to experience continued growth and the types of learning opportunities in which they would like to be involved.

Social Work Program SWRK 6900/6901 Learning Agreement/Contract

The learning agreement includes a list of the HPU School of Social Work nine core competencies. Each of the competencies includes practice behaviors the students should have an opportunity to perform during the practicum. Field instructors/supervisors and students will develop a list of activities and tasks the student should complete during the semester. The learning agreements includes some suggestions for activities that students can complete during their practicum experience. Students and field instructors/supervisors are also encouraged to create their own unique activities that best reflect the services provided at the field agency. Please use the “Date” field to identify the estimated date by which the student will complete the activity/tasks.

Return this document to the Field Education Director by the due date listed in the current Social Work Practicum Calendar for his/her review, revisions (if necessary), and approval.

Theoretical Framework

The HPU Social Work Department has identified six core theories that underlie curriculum content in the MSW program and that should guide student in their field placement experiences. For further reading on these theories please see the current MSW student handbook. The theories are as follows:

Generalist Year (6900/6901) – Empowerment, Strengths Based, and Ecosystems

Specialist Year (7900/7901) – Critical Theory, Decolonization, and Intersectionality

Instructions for Evaluating Student Progress and Performance

The evaluation is designed to assist the student, and the field supervisor in the assessment of the student’s progress in tasks set forth by this document. Comparing the student you are evaluating to others at the same level of professional development, please rate the student’s performance on each of their learning agreement activities according to the following scale:

- [3] Fully Competent: Student performed above the minimum level of competency
- [2] Satisfactory/Sufficient Progress: Student performed at the minimum competency expectations
- [1] Unsatisfactory/Insufficient Progress: Student shows little or no awareness or movement toward achieving minimum competency expectations
- [0] Did Not Complete: The student was unable to complete this objective
- [N/A] Not Observed: No opportunity to evaluate this learning objective because the student did not complete it

Competency One: Demonstrate Ethical and Professional Behavior
Social workers understand the value base of the profession and its ethical standards, as well as relevant laws and regulations that may impact practice at the micro, mezzo, and macro levels. Social workers understand frameworks of ethical decision-making and how to apply principles of critical thinking to those frameworks in practice, research, and policy arenas. Social workers recognize personal values and the distinction between personal and professional values. They also understand how their personal experiences and affective reactions influence their professional judgment and behavior. Social workers understand the profession's history, its mission, and the roles and responsibilities of the profession. Social Workers also understand the role of other professions when engaged in inter-professional teams. Social workers recognize the importance of life-long learning and are committed to continually updating their skills to ensure they are relevant and effective. Social workers also understand emerging forms of technology and the ethical use of technology in social work practice. Social workers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • make ethical decisions by applying the standards of the NASW Code of Ethics, relevant laws and regulations, models for ethical decision-making, ethical conduct of research, and additional codes of ethics as appropriate to context; • use reflection and self-regulation to manage personal values and maintain professionalism in practice situations; • demonstrate professional demeanor in behavior; appearance; and oral, written, and electronic communication; • use technology ethically and appropriately to facilitate practice outcomes; and • use supervision and consultation to guide professional judgment and behavior.
Suggested Activities: Students MUST chose at least one activity from this list	Date	Evaluation Score
Read agency policies and handbook, complete all required employee code of conduct trainings/on boarding, adhere to agency expectations regarding dress, hours, punctuality, and client confidentiality
Review NASW Code of Ethics and any Hawaii state laws or ethical codes that pertain the work with this agency or agency clients. Know when you are required to be a mandated reporter and how to complete such reports.

Competency Two: Engage Diversity and Difference in Practice
Social workers understand how diversity and difference characterize and shape the human experience and are critical to the formation of identity. The dimensions of diversity are understood as the intersectionality of multiple factors including but not limited to age, class, color, culture, disability and ability, ethnicity, gender, gender identity and expression, immigration status, marital status, political ideology, race, religion/spirituality, sex, sexual orientation, and tribal sovereign status. Social workers understand that, as a consequence of difference, a person's life experiences may include oppression, poverty, marginalization, and alienation as well as privilege, power, and acclaim. Social workers also understand the forms and mechanisms of oppression and discrimination and recognize the extent to which a culture's structures and values, including social, economic, political, and cultural exclusions, may oppress, marginalize, alienate, or create privilege and power. Social workers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • apply and communicate understanding of the importance of diversity and difference in shaping life experiences in practice at the micro, mezzo, and macro levels; • present themselves as learners and engage clients and constituencies as experts of their own experiences; and • apply self-awareness and self-regulation to manage the influence of personal biases and values in working with diverse clients and constituencies.
Suggested Activities: Students MUST chose at least one activity from this list	Date	Evaluation Score
Discuss in supervision issues of self-awareness and difference among client population and agency staff, addressing personal biases.
Review case file(s)/engage in a client interaction(s), identifying aspects of human diversity (e.g., gender, race, ethnicity, religion, socioeconomic status, sexual orientation, level of ablement, age) and discuss/write a summary about how they are specifically impacting the client's situation. Competency Four: Engage in Practice-Informed Research and Research-Informed Practice
Social workers understand quantitative and qualitative research methods and their respective roles in advancing a science of social work and in evaluating their practice. Social workers know the principles of logic, scientific inquiry, and culturally informed and ethical approaches to building knowledge. Social workers understand that evidence that informs practice derives from multi-disciplinary sources and multiple ways of knowing. They also understand the processes for translating research findings into effective practice. Social workers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • use practice experience and theory to inform scientific inquiry and research; • apply critical thinking to engage in analysis of quantitative and qualitative research methods and research findings; and • use and translate research evidence to inform and improve practice, policy, and service delivery.
